

A native of Indianapolis, Kelly Swensson enjoys an active freelance career including performances with The Who, the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, Indianapolis Chamber Orchestra, and Louisville Orchestra. She also performs often with local chamber ensembles and as a studio musician. Kelly has served as instructor of bassoon at the Jordan College of the Arts at Butler University. In 2012, she was a finalist in the international Meg Quigley Vivaldi Competition, after having been a semi-finalist in 2010.

Kelly received a Bachelor of Music degree in performance from the Oberlin Conservatory of Music studying with George Sakakeeny and a Master of Music degree from Butler University, where she studied with Doug Spaniol and served as Graduate Assistant in Music Theory. She has also studied at the Colburn School in Los Angeles with Richard Beene and at Northwestern University with Dennis Michel. Kelly currently lives in Zionsville with her husband Jordan and daughters, Harriet and Violet.